SERVICE AND REGULATORY ANNOUNCEMENTS

BUREAU OF ANIMAL INDUSTRY

JANUARY, 1926

[This publication is issued monthly for the dissemination of information, instructions, rulings, etc., concerning the work of the Bureau of Animal Industry. Free distribution is limited to persons in the service of the bureau, establishments at which the Federal meat inspection is conducted, public officers whose duties make it desirable for them to have such information, and journals especially concerned. Others desiring copies may obtain them from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., at 5 cents each, or 25 cents a year. A supply will be sent to each official in charge of a station or branch of the bureau service, who should promptly distribute copies to members of his force. A file should be kept at each station for reference.]

NOTICE REGARDING MEAT INSPECTIONEXCESSIVE QUANTITY OF SODIUM NITRATE IN PUMPING PICKLE

It has been ascertained that some establishments are regularly using pumping pickles containing sodium nitrate or saltpeter far in excess of any quantity which could possibly be utilized in the curing process. Although the use of sodium nitrate or saltpeter is permitted under the meat-inspection regulations and no limits for permissible quantities have been set, it must not be forgotten that these salts are capable of injury to human health if consumed in excess. Use of them in quantities greater than are required to accomplish the purpose for which they are used, namely, the fixation of color, is needless, wasteful, and tends to impair the wholesomeness of the meat. The presence of excessive nitrate also has an adverse effect on quality and flavor.

The color-fixing action of the nitrate contained in the pumping pickle is of little consequence, since this pickle does not, as a rule, become widely distributed throughout the piece of meat, but remains as an area of local concentration near the point of deposition. Neither is any great salt strength required for the purpose of preservation, since the development of the organisms which cause spoilage is checked by as little as 3 per cent salt. It is known that a pumping pickle made by dissolving 1 pound of sodium nitrate in 100 gallons of brine of 65° salometer strength has been used with success. Moderate salt strength is recommended, as high salt strength appears to interfere with the reduction of nitrate to nitrite and consequently delays the fixation of color.

Although no limits to the quantities of sodium nitrate or saltpeter which may be added to meats have been set, and although the practice of pumping meats has been formally sanctioned, abuse of these curing agents can not be permitted. Until further notice, sodium nitrate or saltpeter in excess of 1 per cent will be held excessive in pumping pickle, since it is known that pickling solutions containing materially less than this per cent are being successfully used. Establishments using pumping pickles of excessive nitrate strength are cautioned against continuance of the practice. The meat-inspection laboratories will hereafter determine the nitrate strength of samples of pumping pickle and report the findings to the inspector in charge. Persistent use of pumping pickle of excessive nitrate strength shall be brought to the attention of the bureau by the inspector in charge.

LICENSES FOR VETERINARY BIOLOGICAL PRODUCTS

LICENSES ISSUED

United States veterinary license No. 4, dated January 8, 1926, was issued to the Abbott Laboratories, Fourteenth Street and Sheridan Road, North Chicago, Ill., for the preparation of the following products: Antidistemper serum (canine); autogenous bacterin; avian tuberculin; bacillus abortus bacterin (bovine); bacillus avisepticus bacterin; bacillus suiscepticus bacterin; blackleg filtrate; blackleg vaccine; canine distemper mixed bacterin; equine abortion mixed bacterin; equine hemorrhagic septicemia bacterin; gastroenteritis mixed bacterin (equine); hemorrhagic-septicemia bacterin (bovine); hemorrhagic-septicemia bacterin (for sheep); joint-ill mixed bacterin (equine); mammitis mixed bacterin

(bovine); mixed bacterin (for rabbits); mixed infection bacterin (bovine); mixed infection bacterin (canine); mixed infection bacterin (for fowls); mixed infection bacterin (for sheep); mixed infection bacterin (for swine); pig-scour mixed bacterin; polyvalent mixed bacterin (equine); staphylo-bacterin (canine); strepto bacterin (equine); streptococcus mastitis bacterin (bovine); swine-abortion mixed bacterin; tuberculin; white-scour mixed bacterin (bovine).

United States veterinary license No. 10, dated January 22, 1926, was issued to the United Serum Co., East Twenty-first Street and Wabash Avenue, Wichita, Kans., for the preparation of the following products: Anti-hog-cholera serum; hog-cholera virus.

United States veterinary license No. 107, dated January 15, 1926, was issued to the Jensen-Salsbury Laboratories (Inc.), 520 West Pennway, Kansas City, Mo., and southwest corner Shawnee Road and Forest Avenue, Kansas City, Kans., for the preparation of the following products: Anthrax aggressin.

United States veterinary license No. 148, dated January 6, 1926, was issued to W. F. Straub Laboratories (Inc.), 5514-5520 Norwood Park Avenue, Chicago, Ill., for the preparation of the following products: Anticanine distemper serum; blackleg filtrate; canine mixed infection bacterin; equine hemorrhagic-septicemia bacterin; swine abortion mixed bacterin.

PERMITS ISSUED

Permit No. 6, dated January 8, 1926, was issued to A. Charklian, 500 Fifth Avenue, New York City, for the importation of the following products manufactured by Institute de Sérotherapie, 22 Rue Ingres, Toulouse, France: Blackleg cultural aggressin; blackleg bacterin.

Permit No. 6, dated January 30, 1926, was issued to A. Charklian, 500 Fifth Avenue, New York City, for the importation of the following products manufactured by Laboratoire de Bacteriologie de Laigle, Laigle, France: Distemper mixed bacterin (equine); endometritis mixed bacteria (bovine and equine); fowl-typhoid and fowl-cholera mixed bacterin; hemorrhagic septicemia and infectious enteritis mixed bacterin (swine); infectious abortion mixed bacterin (bovine); mastitis mixed bacterin (bovine).

LICENSES TERMINATED

United States veterinary licenses No. 4, issued January 1, 1921, June 10, 1921, and December 10, 1923, to the Abbott Laboratories, 4753 Ravenswood Avenue, Chicago, Ill., were terminated January 8, 1926, and license No. 4, dated January 8, 1926, was issued to the firm at its new location, as indicated above.

PERMITTED DIP FOR SCABIES OF CATTLE AND SHEEP

"Dow Dry Lime Sulphur," manufactured by the Dow Chemical Co., Midland, Mich., is permitted by the department in the official dipping of cattle and sheep for scabies. This permission is granted with the understanding that the product must first be dissolved in water at or near the boiling point before being added to the dipping vat, and that if any significant proportion remains undissolved it shall be allowed to settle out and only the clear liquid be added to the dipping vat. The dilutions at which this product is permitted are as follows: For cattle, not less than 32 pounds of the product to 100 gallons of water. For sheep, not less than 24 pounds of the product to 100 gallons of water.
